

El último destino del Nautilus

PLAN DE LECTURA

~2023/2024~

En français

20000 Lieues sous les mers – Jules Verne

Le professeur Aronnaux, Conseil et Ned Land n'abandonnent pas le Nautilus. Alors le capitain Nemo leur dit sa véritable identité et sa tragique histoire pour qu'ils le rejoignent et luttent contre l'injustice de la mer. Ensemble ils rénovent l'équipage du Nautilus et ils se consacrent à protéger les océans et ses créatures en utilisant la technologie avancée du sous-marin pour arrêter la chasse des baleines et le pillage des ressources marines. Son héritage sera une légende et un espoir pour la conservation et l'harmonie entre l'humanité et le monde marin.

La Dernière Destination Du Nautilus: L'Atlantide!!

➤ Journal De Bord:

Jour 5120: Après avoir échappé au terrifiant tourbillon, nous avons accosté à côté d'une petite île pour faire des réparations dans le sous-marin.

Jour 5121: Nous avons eu de la chance avec ce lieu. Il y a une immense forêt et nous allons profiter de tout ce bois pour notre chaudière. Aussi, cinq hommes iront chercher des aliments afin de remplir la soute du Nautilus.

Jour 5122: Les explorateurs sont rentrés avec des nouvelles! Au milieu de l'île il y a une ouverture très obscure... À leur avis, elle va vers la mer. Nous nous préparons à parcourir le bord de l'île pour découvrir cette grotte mystérieuse.

Jour 5123: Nous avons trouvé l'entrée! Il semble qu'il y a de la lumière au bout du tunnel...

Jour 5124: La luminescence provenait d'une ville ancienne...et apparemment, elle a été submergée pendant des siècles...même des milliers d'années!! Mais, ça ne peut pas être... Ce serait l'endroit auquel je pense????

Jour 5125: Définitivement! C'est ici! Il n'y pas de doute: c'est L'Atlantide!! Une nouvelle énigme se présente devant nous!

Patricia
Álvarez Franco
B1 Francés

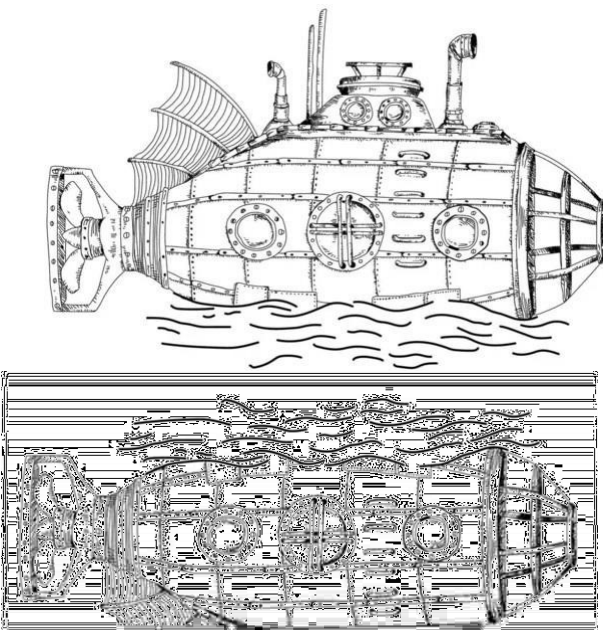

La dernière destination du Nautilus

Depuis le 31 octobre, nous avons travaillé pendant cinq mois pour réparer le Nautilus à cause du tourbillon maléfique. Le gouvernement américain nous a offert du soutien économique afin de retourner aux mystères de grands fonds marins le plus vite possible.

Une nouvelle vie commence pour le capitaine Nemo à bord du Nautilus. Tout semblait être un mauvais cauchemar à l'heure où le sous-marin était de nouveau dans le fond de l'océan.

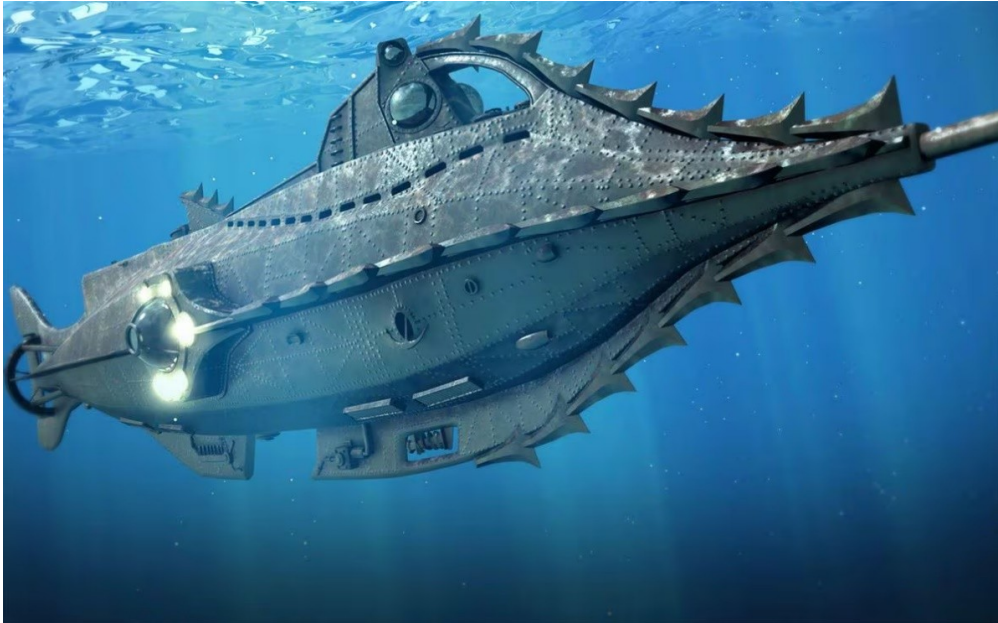

Le 1^{er} janvier, le monstre marin est capturé sur la côte Cantabrique. Après cet événement, il n'existera plus jamais des catastrophes maritimes inexplicables. Les Espagnols, soulagés, sont descendus dans les rues avec des pancartes: «Merci beaucoup! Le capitaine Nemo et l'équipage du Nautilus sont les meilleurs!»

Le capitaine Nemo a apprécié le soutien reçu par l'Espagne. Cette expédition était la plus incroyable des aventures!. «Nous publierons un nouveau livre avec les merveilles extraordinaires que nous avons contemplées. Il sera traduit en anglais, français, espagnol et chinois pour que la majorité de la société puisse le lire», a-t-il annoncé.

Olga García Álvarez- B1

LA DERNIÈRE DESTINATION DU NAUTILUS

Après que les trois 'invités' du Nautilus se sont échappés du sous-marin, le capitaine Nemo était en même temps soulagé et impatient de vivre d'autres aventures.

Malgré sa volonté d'y continuer, son équipage était fatigué de voyager: ils voulaient en arrêter et prendre une longue période de vacances pour profiter de l'argent gagné pendant ces années d'avoir supporté Nemo. Au début, le capitaine s'est senti trahi, mais il a fini par comprendre ses employés.

En conséquence, afin de ne pas arrêter ses aventures, il a décidé de louer son sous-marin aux touristes qui voudraient l'accompagner pour traverser le fond de la mer.

Même si le billet n'était pas bon marché car le capitaine était un peu avaricieux, il a eu un énorme succès. Avec le temps, il a changé de caractère et il est devenu un homme plus gentil. Il a même promis de donner sa fortune aux écologistes en faveur de la mer!

LA DERNIÈRE DESTINATION DU NAUTILUS

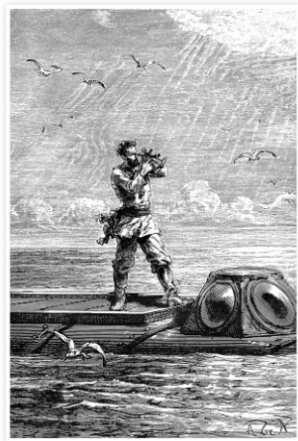

Après le terrible tourbillon de la mer dans la côte norvégienne, le Nautilus émerge des eaux turbulentes montrant des signes d'avoir souffert de graves dommages. À bord, le Capitaine Nemo et son équipage travaillent dur pour réparer les systèmes endommagés pendant qu'ils se remettent des événements traumatisants.

Le Capitaine Nemo ressentant un nouveau lien avec le monde extérieur, décide de partager ses connaissances et découvertes avec l'humanité en travaillant en collaboration avec des scientifiques et des dirigeants du monde entier pour attaquer les problèmes mondiaux tels que la conservation marine et l'exploration durable des ressources.

Le Nautilus devient un symbole d'espoir et de coopération, en voyageant à travers les océans du monde à la recherche de nouvelles découvertes et aidant dans les missions de sauvetage et de conservation.

Le Capitaine Nemo, finalement, en paix avec lui-même, trouve sa place en tant que défenseur des océans et ami de l'humanité.

Et ainsi reprend l'histoire du Nautilus et du Capitaine Nemo qui continue à naviguer vers un futur plein de possibilités et de défis.

Vingt mille et une lieues sous les mers

Mon grand-père, Pierre Aronnax, m'avait raconté plusieurs fois son histoire à bord du Nautilus. Cependant, je n'aurais jamais pensé que ce sous-marin marquerait non seulement sa vie, mais aussi celle de toute sa famille.

Le 20 juillet 1966, à l'occasion du dixième anniversaire de sa mort, je passais de merveilleuses vacances en famille à Trinacia. J'ai toujours été un grand amateur de la vie sous-marine, ce que j'ai hérité de mon grand-père. Je plongeais à quelques kilomètres de la côte lorsqu'un objet étrange a attiré mon attention. Je me suis approché, mais je ne savais pas ce que cela pouvait être. Il y avait quelque chose qui me semblait familier. Néanmoins, je ne savais toujours pas ce qui m'attendait en ce jour de plongée. J'ai quitté la mer et je suis retourné à la maison de mon ami où je logeais. Pendant six nuits consécutives, j'avais eu le même rêve: j'apparaissais au milieu de la mer et je rencontrais cet objet bizarre. La septième nuit, mon grand-père est apparu dans mon rêve et, soudain, j'ai tout compris. La légende du Nautilus m'avait choisi, moi, le petit-fils de Pierre Aronnax, pour la ressusciter sur l'île où Ulysse avait été tenté par les sirènes. Résisterais-je à la nouvelle tentation du Nautilus?

Lucía Blanco González B1

La dernière destination du "Nautilus"

Journal de bord "Nautilus", mars 2024

Il est huit heures du soir, je suis assis devant ce papier avec une humeur renouvelée. Je sens une grande paix et mon cœur bat avec un rythme calme et tranquille.

Depuis que le Nautilus fut englouti par le Maelstrom, une obscurité terrible s'empara de tout le sous-marin et mon corps prisonnier de ces eaux furieuses entreprit le dernier voyage.

C'était un voyage qui m'a conduit dans les endroits les plus sombres et qui m'a rendu la lumière.

Et dans cette lumière dans laquelle je me trouve maintenant, j'ai découvert ce que je cherchais, et ce ne sont pas toutes les merveilles que mes yeux ont pu découvrir dans les profondeurs marines, ni la soif de vengeance qui m'a toujours nourri, ni mon désir constant de garder mes découvertes secrètes.

J'ai découvert le début, qui n'est autre que la fin et j'ai commencé à être à nouveau : RIEN.

M^a Jesús García Blanco

Francés B21

En galego

“O último destino do Nautilus: o porto de Sada”

Eu, Pierre Aronnax prisioneiro do Capitán Nemo no seu increíble Nautilus, gocei por todos os océanos, por lugares tan fermosos como a Atlántida. Visitei illas como a Polinesia, o mar Vermello... pero nunca imaxinei que me atoparía un lugar tan maravilloso como a vila mariñeira de Sada, situada na ría de Betanzos.

O meu acompañante Conseil cando chegou a este lugar comprendeu que este era o destino verdadeiro do submariño. Neste fabuloso sitio o Capitán Nemo abandonou a súa depresión e mal humor.

Contemplamos as súas praias tan espectaculares como Arnela, Lourido, o Castelo de Fontán, o seu porto deportivo e o seu paseo marítimo onde se atopa un edificio emblemático, a terraza de Sada.

Namoráronnos as coloridas casas mariñeiras de Fontán: a alma de Sada.

Exploramos con fascinación espazos naturais protexidos como a Reserva da Biosfera As Mariñas Coruñesas, onde conviven falcóns ou gabiáns lonxe daqueles monstros mariños que tanto medo nos fixeron pasar.

O último destino do Nautilus: o porto da illa de Sálvora

Logo do ataque, o Nautilus chegou a terras galegas, a un porto de rochas, e cando os tripulantes saíron do submarino viron un bosque fascinante, estes encontrábanse no porto da illa de Sálvora.

Decidiron entrar no bosque, e alí, encontraron unha senda estreita pola que chegaron a unha aldea onde a xente os miraba perplexa.

A aldea tiña castros e pazos doutro tempo, como se alí non corresen os anos, pero o máis estraño era que había un monumento no medio da praza dunha persoa da cintura para arriba e peixe para abaixo.

Ningún dos habitantes quixo acercarse, e os ocupantes do Nautilus tampouco, pero si puideron ver que a economía da aldea se centraba na venda de peixes e verduras, así como do gando.

Non tardaron en entenderse cos aldeáns e decidiron quedar alí a vivir por sempre.

LAURA RAMOS GARCÍA A2 GALEGO

O último destino do Nautilus: o porto de Sanxenxo

E foi aquí onde encallou “O Nautilus”, no porto de Sanxenxo, chamado Xoán Carlos I, polo rei emérito. Hai moitas razóns para viaxar aquí. Ten dous tipos de porto, o pesqueiro e o deportivo.

Sanxenxo é un dos destinos máis turísticos do norte de España, o tempo adoita ser caloroso durante o verán, emporiso, non podes esquecer levar unha chaqueta porque de noite arrefría. Os seus arredores son maravillosos, pódense visitar praias salvaxes como A Lanzada, pasear polas paisaxes engaiolantes das Rías Baixas e percorrer aldeas como Combarro, A Toxa e Cambados. Está garantido xantar ben en calquera dos seus locais enxebres e gozar das especialidades galegas: zorza, polbo á feira, luras, mexillóns...todo regado con bo viño branco.

En períodos estivais as orquestras animarán moitas das festas que hai na zona e agasallan os convidados cunha rica queimada que fai desta terra un sitio moi especial que quedará gardado na túa memoria.

O último destino do Nautilus: o porto de Viveiro-Celeiro

Viveiro sitúase nas rías altas galegas e é considerada a capital da Mariña Occidental.

Un dos principais atractivos da vila é a súa arquitectura. Pódese visitar comenzando desde a imponente Ponte da Misericordia entrando na antiga vila medieval amurallada pola porta de Carlos V e ruar pola zona vella disfrutando da súa paisaxe urbana, as casas señoriais, o Mosteiro da Concepción, a Gruta de Lourdes, a Igrexa de San Francisco e se o tempo o permite, tomar un café na Praza Maior.

Pódese gozar tamén do encanto do atardecer desde o emblemático Mirador de San Roque onde hai unha magnífica vista da zona.

Ademais moi preto de Viveiro encóntrase a Punta do Fuciño do Porco, unha ruta con impresionantes vistas do mar desde altos cantís.

A visita a Viveiro é ideal para unha fin de semana, atoparás unha vila con encanto afeita a recibir turistas que mestura historia, natureza e gastronomía.

Ana Canelas García- Galego-A2

O último destino do Nautilus:

O porto de Baiona

Baiona é un concello da provincia de Pontevedra situado na marxe esquerda da Ría de Vigo, é un importante porto pesqueiro e deportivo e atópase nunha das paraxes máis fermosas de toda Galicia. É famosa por ser a primeira vila que tivo noticias do descubrimento de América e tamén pola súa relevancia como parada no Camiño Portugués da Costa. O seu clima agradable permite desfrutar ao máximo da súa zona histórica e da rica gastronomía. Ademais, é un punto de partida ideal para explorar lugares próximos, como o Monte de Santa Tecla, a vila de Tui ou as Illas Cíes.

Algúns dos lugares imprescindibles que debes visitar son a Fortaleza de Monterreal, a réplica da carabela La Pinta e pasear polas praias urbanas de Barbeira e Ribeira.

Baiona é unha cidade histórica e turística coa súa riqueza cultural, praias e deliciosa comida. Non deixes de visitar este fermoso recuncho das Rías Baixas!

O ÚLTIMO DESTINO DO NAUTILUS:

O PORTO DE MUXÍA

Descubre a fascinante beleza do porto de Muxía, último destino das viaxes mariñas do Nautilus, situado na comarca de Fisterra, na provincia da Coruña. Este enclave marítimo na costa noroeste de Galicia combina historia, natureza e gastronomía.

Muxía, un pobo mariñeiro tradicional, ofrece unha paisaxe costeira impresionante, con fascinantes cantís, coas súas coloridas embarcacións e a actividade apaixonada dos pescadores. Podes explorar o emblemático Cabo Vilán e a misteriosa Costa da Morte. Gozar de actividades como a pesca deportiva e, o kayak, ou relaxarte nas súas tranquilas praias de area dourada. Non te perdas a rica oferta gastronómica, con pratos como o polvo á galega e as zamburiñas á prancha.

Co seu encanto único, o porto de Muxía brinda unha experiencia auténtica e enriquecedora que non deberías deixar pasar na túa viaxe por Galicia.

O último destino do Nautilus: O porto de Sada

O porto

O porto deportivo de Sada é un destino emblemático, está en plena Ría de Betanzos, ao norte da provincia da Coruña, na comarca das Mariñas. É un destino turístico pola súa proximidade á Coruña e mais polas vilas do arredor: Lorbé, Mera e Santa Cruz.

Praias

A praia de Sada é das maiores da comarca, e ten un tesouro preto dela: a praia de Morazón, en Fontán, resgardada, de area fina, ideal para mergullarse nas súas augas cristalinas.

A Terraza

A Terraza é un edificio modernista do principio do século XX feito de ferro forxado cunhas enormes fiestras de vidro.

Museo

A só tres quilómetros está o «Museo Carlos Maside» de Sargadelos, cunha mostra da famosa cerámica do Castro con obras de Castelao, Luís Seoane e outros artistas da vangarda galega.

Gastronomía

Non esquezades a gastronomía como as afamadas sardiñas que veñen da lonxa do porto pesqueiro.

O ÚLTIMO DESTINO DO NAUTILUS

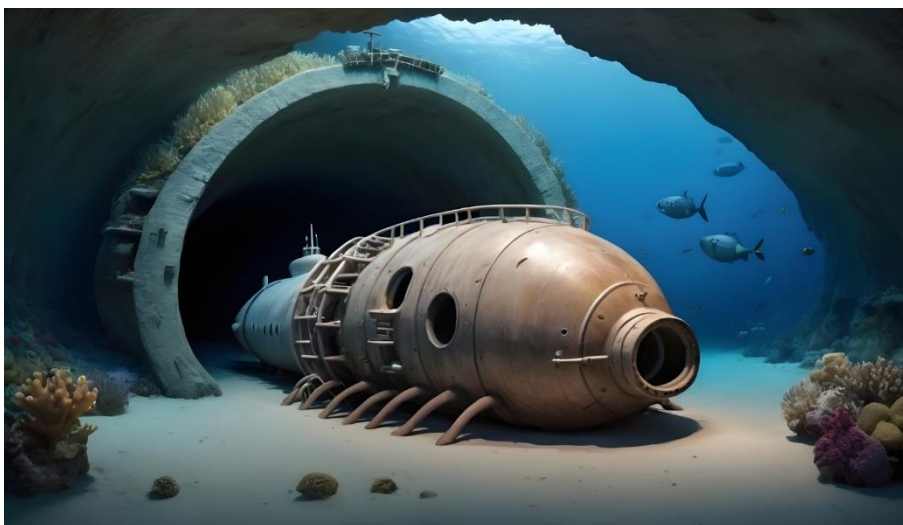

Mentres o Nautilus navegaba preto das Illas Cíes, o equipo preparábase para a última aventura. Ao chegar ás augas cristalinas do arquipélago, o Capitán explicoulles a intención que tiña de explorar o fondo destas illas.

Con gran expectación, o profesor Aronnax, Conseil e Ned Land descenderon nun bote submarino. Nas profundidades, quedaron marabillados pola beleza das formacións rochosas e a vida mariña que habita no seu interior.

De súpeto, topáronse cunha cova, cuxa entrada estaba adornada con estraños símbolos gravados nas rocas. Exploraron máis a fondo e descubriron unha antiga estatua mergullada no interior, cuberta por corais e algas, que dificultaba a súa identificación.

O Capitán Nemo, recoñecido pola súa paixón pola arqueoloxía mariña, quedou fascinado polo achado, levou a estatua ao Nautilus e restaurouna. Descubriu que era unha representación de Poseidón, o deus do mar.

Ao concluíren a expedición, o Capitán prometeulles unha futura aventura nas profundidades do océano.

LAURA RODRÍGUEZ FARIÑAS, GALEGO B2.2.

O derradeiro rumbo do Nautilus

Caderno de Bitácora

O 21 de xullo desembarcamos, despois dunha longa travesía dende o Atlántico norte ata as Illas Atlánticas de Galiza, nun dos lugares máis belos da ría de Pontevedra.

Exploramos a illa que os aldeáns chaman Ons, e despois de percorrer varios camiños e sendeiros, atopámonos cun gran burato na terra.

Os máis vellos da zona contan que é coñecida polo nome de burato do inferno, xa que se escoitan uns berros tan arrepiantes, que parecen das ánimas en pena, alí atrapadas polo demo.

Como non creo moito en lendas, decidín coller unhas cordas moi longas, e o meu equipo máis eu descendemos cara ó seu interior.

Segundo iamos baixando, os berros eran enxordecedores e arrepiantes, mais nós seguimos adiante.

De súpeto vimos unha sombra máis escura, moi longa, coma un ciprés, que se achegaba lentamente. Cando lle deu a claridade das nosas candeas, atopámonos cun aldeán que é quen coida de que ninguén se perda pola cova. Nese intre, soubemos que os berros non eran das ánimas, senón do vento e a forza do mar ó adentrárense na cova cando vai mal tempo.

Despois o vello sinalounos un pequeno burato escuro que penetra na terra. Díxonos que esa era a entrada ao inferno.

María Isabel Fernández Juan

Galego C1

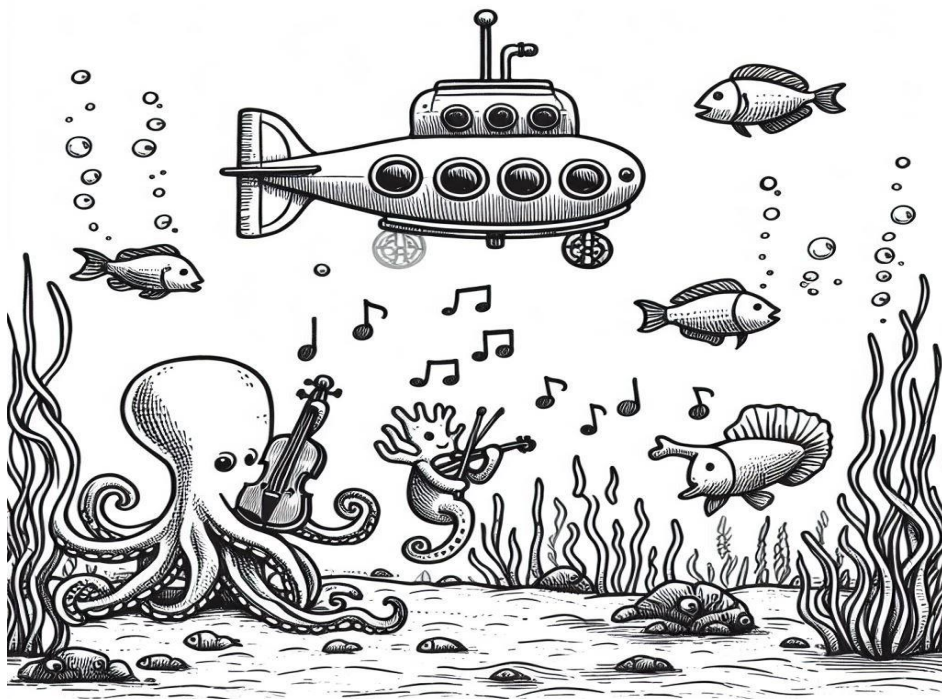

O derradeiro destino do Nautilus

O Nautilus, o famoso submarino do capitán Nemo, non só atopou tesouros nos fondos mariños, senón tamén aventuras inesquecibles. Un día, mentres mergullaban para buscar o peixe máis divertido do océano, o peixe Feisón, o Nautilus atopouse cunha cidade submarina poboada por criaturas moi estrañas: polbos que tocaban o violín, quenllas que bailaban salsa e medusas que recitaban poesía.

O capitán Nemo, sempre curioso, decidiu unirse á festa e organizar un gran concurso submarino de talentos. O Nautilus transformouse nun escenario flotante, e tódalas criaturas grandes e pequenas mostraron os seus dons. Os peixes tocaban instrumentos feitos con algas, as baleas facían acrobacias na auga e os golfiños cantaban e bailaban.

Finalmente, encontraron o peixe Feisón, que gañou os corazóns de todos e foi coroado rei da festa.

O destino do Nautilus, dende entón, permaneceu como unha lenda entre os mariñeiros, animando ás xeracións futuras a descubrir os misterios do océano.

In English

The Final Destination of the Nautilus: Saint Malo.

This is the last page of the Nautilus logbook.

The journey was long and dangerous but also interesting and amazing.

I watched fantastic creatures, wonderful landscapes and I met good people although later I felt alone and sad.

For that reason the trip finished.

I arrived at Saint Malo harbor in April, it was Spring and the weather was hot, when I arrived at the door of the house I was afraid, I was away for many years, I never saw my family and I didn't write them. I felt embarrassed.

The door was open and I entered, all my family was there, my brothers and sisters, nieces, nephews, cousins, everybody smiled and me too.

I felt the happiest man on the world, my family was great, they weren't angry with me. Finally the last voyage of the Nautilus arrived home.

Nemo Captain.

Sonia Fdez. Uría. Inglés A2/A

THE FINAL DESTINATION OF THE NAUTILUS

In the submarine there were only three people, the chef, a naval officer and the Captain Nemo. He felt tired, sad, he was fed up with the rest of the world. He thought it was time to stop.

Later they were in the coast of Spain. The captain looked through his telescope and he saw the harbour of La Coruña...also a small fortress in the middle of the sea. There was a small castle!!! That was the best place to dock the submarine. Behind the castle they could hide and be near of wharf.

The Captain Nemo had arrived at the castle of Santa Cruz. This a beautiful place that was built to defend themselves from the English four hundred years ago. At the end of eighteenth century, Emilia Pardo Bazán's husband bought it and built a Pazo for holiday.

Finally, Nemo could walk around the island and talk to Mrs Emilia. Since then, he felt happy.

CASTILLO DE SANTA CRUZ (Oleiros – La Coruña)

M^a del Río Garachana Román

Grupo A / B1

THE FINAL DESTINATION OF THE NAUTILUS: "RIBADESELLA"

When captain Nemo was 65 years old, he thought that his long sea travels must come to an end.

He decided to look for a place to live peacefully for the rest of his life, so he took his map and found a little village near the place where he was at that moment: Ribadesella.

It was a marvellous town near the sea which had a little port where the Nautilus could be tied up. Near the beach, there was a nice path where he could go for a walk.

Besides, he had read that in this town, an interesting festival called "The descent to the river Sella" was celebrated the first Saturday of August every year. It was a canoe competition in which his crew and he could take part.

Finally, he heard about a marvellous and typical drink in the area: the cider.

THE FINAL DESTINATION OF THE NAUTILUS: NAPLES

The Nautilus was moving quietly in the deep sea of the Mediterranean, silently cutting through the water while we got closer to our destination. As the captain of this special submarine, I decided to go to the port of Naples, place where many ancient civilizations lived.

There was a deep attraction to go there, the idea of exploring the narrow streets of Naples, immersing myself in its history and finding out some secrets about it, which filled me with emotion.

When we got there, Naples was like a big maze with lots of small streets with a vibrant energy. The air smelled like fresh bread and there was music everywhere. I explored the fascinating catacombs and discovered its historic churches and palaces.

M^a Rosa Mastropietro

Grupo B1 A

The last destination of the Nautilus: The Caribbean Islands

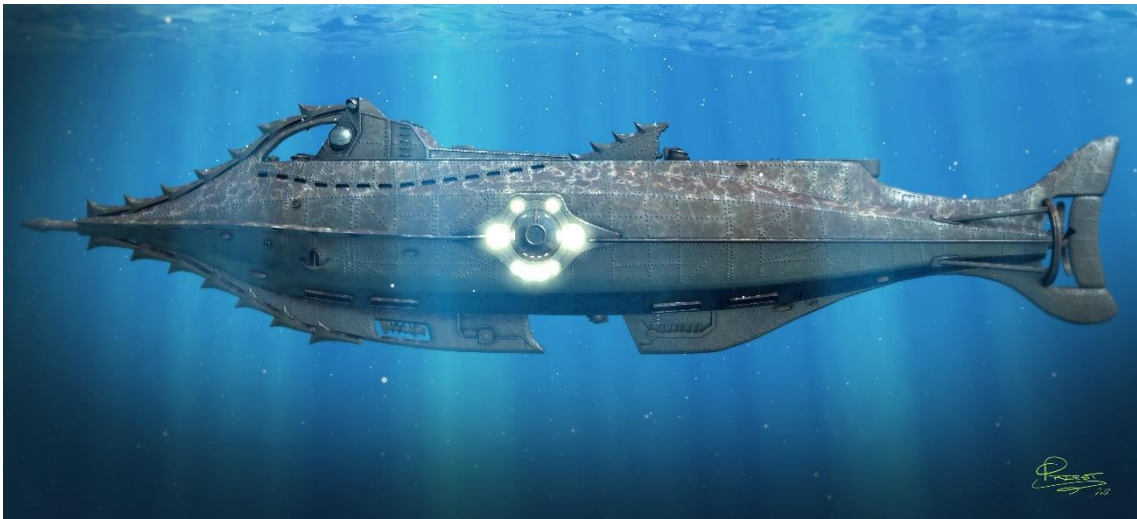

After 20 days, I'm free and also my partners on Captain Nemo's Nautilus. At last, I can have fresh air in my body.

We're on an island with trees, animals, a big volcano and warm water. My colleagues say that we are on a Caribbean Island, but I don't know, and with my knowledge of science, I think it could be possible.

While we have walked around the islands, we have seen other people, and my mates are very happy.

Our life on the Nautilus has been very rewarding and enriching from the beginning but very hard at the same time, as the last days we spent with Nemo.

I will always have a special memory of Nemo.

B1D_Modesto González Corral

THE FINAL DESTINATION OF THE NAUTILUS: BILBAO

When Captain Nemo decided to stop exploring the seas, he gathered all the crew of the Nautilus in the submarine room and told them that he was going to retire to a city called Bilbao located in the North of Spain, very near to the Cantabrian Sea. The city is reached by sailing along the Nervión estuary from the Bay of Vizcaya. The crew asked Captain Nemo if they could accompany him to his last destination, Nemo agreed with them and was very happy.

Years ago, Bilbao was an industrial city very polluted but in the year 2000 this industry closed down and modern buildings were designed by famous architects, then Bilbao changed and it was visited by 950,000 tourists every year. There are always tourists visiting the Guggenheim Museum, Euskalduna Centre and to have a portion of food taken as an aperitif, pintxos.

To sum up, Bilbao was and is the best city to live and to visit.

Itziar Sancho Corral

English B1 A

THE LAST DESTINATION OF THE NAUTILUS TOLD IN THE DIARY OF A CREW MEMBER.

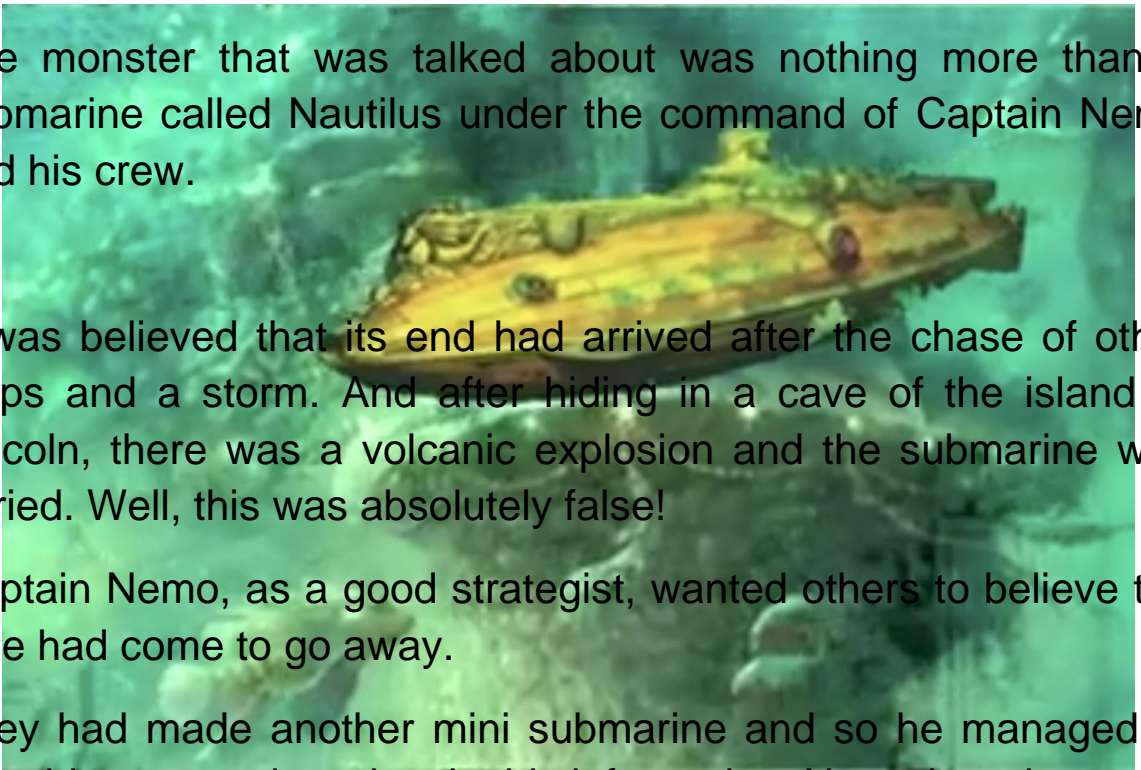

“Not everything is what it seems”, this is how my great –great-grandfather’s diary begins the literary work Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea. Its author was the famous writer Julio Verne. It narrated the existence of strange marine events, that were experienced by a few people. They said they met a sea monster capable of breaking ships even breaking them in half.

The monster that was talked about was nothing more than a submarine called Nautilus under the command of Captain Nemo and his crew.

It was believed that its end had arrived after the chase of other ships and a storm. And after hiding in a cave of the island of Lincoln, there was a volcanic explosion and the submarine was buried. Well, this was absolutely false!

Captain Nemo, as a good strategist, wanted others to believe the time had come to go away.

They had made another mini submarine and so he managed to save his crew and much valuable information. Nowadays they want to share that information with us and that is the reason why we have wonderful things such as submarines, helicopters, and space travel...As my ancestor’s diary indicates.

THE FINAL DESTINATION OF THE NAUTILUS: THE HIDDEN TREASURE

After the escape of his prisoners, Captain Nemo continued his course towards the Barents Sea.

In that sea, there was a legend that only sailors knew. On one of its islands, a treasure is hidden, guarded by a monster. For this reason, Captain Nemo decided to check it out for himself.

Two weeks later, the Nautilus arrived on the island that at first glance seemed to have nothing unusual. During the first look, they roamed the coastal area while observing with the periscope.

Before they knew it, a large squid appeared in front of them. The squid grabbed the Nautilus with its tentacles and crushed it. During the attack, Captain Nemo and two of his crew managed to escape to a nearby island thanks to a crack in the submarine.

From here, the mystery continues... we don't know if they survive without food or just drinking water...

MARTA MÉNDEZ VEGA (INGLÉS: B1-E)

The last destination of the Nautilus: “A twist of fate”

After our stay in the north of Norway, resting from the Maelstrom incident, we went aboard the HMS Surprise heading south, to Tilbury harbour. The journey from Oslo to England was pleasant, and in one week we could scan the English coast.

On 5th September we were at our destination. The next day I was waiting the newspaper when Conseil bounced into the living room, he was very nervous.

*_ An urgent telegram has arrived, Sir!
It's for you – His voice trembled.*

_ A telegram for me? here in London? Oh, my lord, Conseil, don't beg! _ I extended my hand, and he posed carefully the telegram on it. I broke the closure quickly and read:

*“Seven o'clock in the evening, under Tower Bridge.
Come alone. Captain N.”*

_ My God! _ I shouted _ He is alive, Conseil!

At quarter to seven I was there, alone. I was around ten minutes looking at dark waters when something caught my attention, I walked slowly towards an object that was shining into the waters. Suddenly a strong hand held my arm. I turned back and saw him.

_ Nemo! _ A barely audible gasp got away from my throat.

_ I have just come to give you this. _ He extended his hand with a kind of book held by his fingers.

_ What's that? _ The book was bound in black leather.

_ It's my diary, publish it or burn it, it doesn't matter. _ For the first time, I saw him smiling. I stayed there very quiet for an instant, with my mouth opened, not knowing what to say. I took the book and the captain turned around, walked towards the strange object into the waters. Finally, I understood it was the periscope of the Nautilus.

The submarine seemed that he sensed the presence of its owner and emerged. Its beautiful, copper surface shone in the shadows of Tower Bridge. In the distance I said:

_ Wait captain! one more question: what's your real name? _ He looked at me, smiled again and jumped on the shining monster.

Iván Rubio Díez

Inglés B1 E

The last destination of the Nautilus

THE VALLEY OF FREEDOM

It's nine o'clock in the morning. Today is the end of my trip in the Nautilus. It's a happy day, because, I'm with my crew inside the Nautilus, we have completed twenty thousand leagues of underwater travel.

During the trip, we collected many pretty things and the most different objects, we have seen.

I'm writing a letter for all the people that work with me. It's an exciting moment, because, they are my crew and my friends. We had very difficult days, but good moments too.

The Nautilus is in the most beautiful place between the waters in the Mediterranean Sea and the Atlantic Ocean.

While I prepare my things, I can see the octopus that during the trip accompanied us.

This is the moment when I go to Spain. I'll speak on the phone with my friend Julius Verne so that he writes one of the most interesting books of adventures that I have ever read, and I'll go to the Freedom Valley.

J. Angeles Riveiro Arias
I.B

The Last Destination of the Nautilus: The Carucedo's Lake.

It was warm.

It happened on 15th July, a few years ago.

Martin had got up early, like every morning. He had taken his boat and he had gone to the Carucedo's lake. He loved fishing there.

Suddenly, when he was in the middle of the lake, he heard a loud sound and saw it. He didn't know how it came out of the water, but in fact, it was there. The strangest machine in the world was just in front of him.

Martin was able to see an old man through a window in the centre of the machine, who stared at him. He was wearing a navy army suit and he had a long white beard.

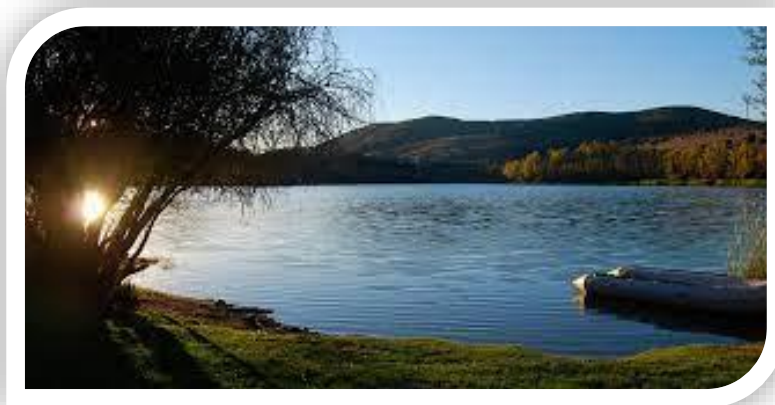

A few minutes later, they met. He introduced himself as Captain Nemo and explained him that they had developed a new machine which permitted to travel everywhere.

Nemo asked Martin if he could give him some food or drink. He had begun to hate the food from the sea and the water that his machine produced.

Martin had a snack bag of TAS potatoes made at El Bierzo and a bottle of El Bierzo's wine.

When Nemo tried the wine and ate the potatoes he said:

"Yummy! I think my trip has finished".

Martin Ortega Gil
E.O.I. B.2.1-C

The last journey of Nautilus: Norway

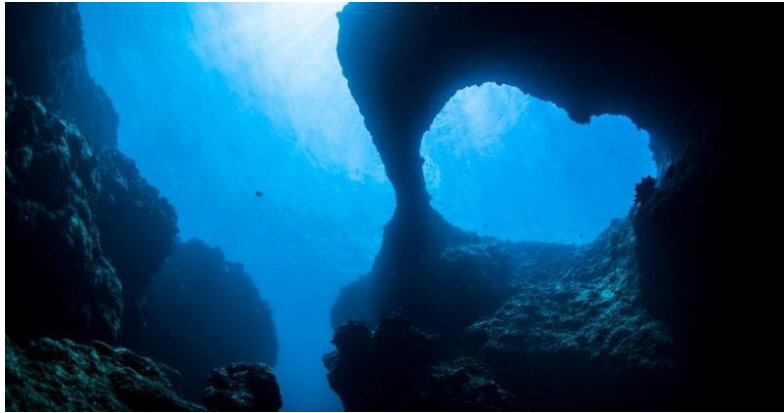

I woke up on a beach on the coast of Norway. The last thing I remember is the Maelstrom, a horrible and huge sea whirlpool. At that moment everything was spinning and I closed my eyes and when I opened them again, I woke up on the seashore, on a beach. Where was I? Was I dreaming or was this real? I looked around to see where I was, and I saw that I was not alone. Near me were Conseil and Ned Land. But where were the others? What had happened to them? As I looked at the horizon, I saw that there was a submarine wreck by the cliffs. Oh! I couldn't believe it!!, It was the Nautilus, were the rest of the crew alive on the submarine?

Marina Lopes Asensio

Ingles B2.1 (A)

The final destination of the Nautilus: The Mariana Trench

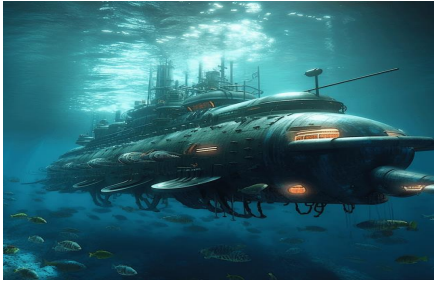

The journey is near to end. I gave orders to my crew and they are preparing the submarine for the last trip. Our destiny was the Mariana trench. The Nautilus is a great vessel of advanced engineering and we wanted to take it to its limits in the depths of the pit. Part of the crew was terrified, because we would be the first man in the world to go in those depths. In the pause of rest, the men were imagining the terrifying creatures that could live there. That idea didn't help to calm the crew. When we arrived, the submarine will start to descend to the abyss. We only saw the darkness and we heard the sound of the main engine. The time passed and the submarine descended more and more, but a terrible sound was heard by the crew. The submarine was cracking because of the pressure. It is the end of us, for my arrogance.

Adrián Álvarez Pérez

B2.1A

THE FINAL DESTINATION OF THE NAUTILUS: CAPE VERDE

After living a lot of adventures and having so many good and bad experiences around the world, Captain Nemo and his crew wanted to settle down and live in a restful place and, if it was possible, with good weather. Fortunately, they found it.

They found the first of ten islands in north of Africa that made them feel good vibes because the people who were living there were incredibly loveable and although they didn't have anything they shared all with them, including their culture. This act was called by the islanders "Morabeza".

For years, they all lived in peace and during this time the crew (who were from different countries) showed them their different cultures too and all they formed a beautiful mixed country. Because of this and the Nautilus, this island became famous and tourists started to visit it and it helped to improve the economy of this beautiful archipelago that they decided to call Cape Verde.

The final destination of the Nautilus: a mysterious island

“When the storm began, Captain Nemo decided to go to the abyss, into the deep sea. It was a risky decision but it finally worked.

The place where he arrived was very strange. It had a volcano! It looked like a mysterious land. The Captain with his crew explored the area and discovered a lot of different things that they had never seen: a green sky, two moons, rare rocks, strange birds and plants, ... Where were they?

And suddenly, one night the volcano exploded and the earth moved. All the people ran around looking for a place to be safe. It was the real end of the adventure but, ... out of the blue a hot-air balloon appeared in the sky. They were so surprised that they almost forgot to get into the balloon. While they were flying, they could see the landscape. They were living in an island!”

And now, ... what would happen to them? Well, this is another chapter of the story. I'll tell you if you want.

The Final Destination

Journey to the Centre of the Earth

Years later, after our escape from Nautilus and the whirlpool, I received news from a scientific community talking about a kind of massive animal that had been discovered by accident near the centre of the earth. I was pretty sure it wasn't an animal, it was the Nautilus ran by Captain Nemo and his crew.

Same as us, they had survived the whirlpool and decided to explore further under the sea towards the centre of the earth to research life and unknown species in this environment.

Captain Nemo, with his thirst and tireless hunger to go beyond to leave behind the human world, and at the same time, to keep in touch with a new world in his technologically advanced submarine, Nautilus, could not only dive deep under the sea, but also reach the centre of the earth, indeed.

This was their last journey. This was the last I heard from him; plenty of wisdom and adventures. Captain Nemo had got a lot of knowledge under his belt after twenty thousand leagues under the sea to keep alive goes there and beyond.

Professor Aronnax

María Luisa (Magüicha) Arias Ferrero
English B2.1

THE FINAL DESTINATION OF THE NAUTILUS: MAELSTRÖM

The inside of the Nautilus was empty for the first time in months, but Captain Nemo cursed the circumstances that led him to that terrifying moment.

The abyss roared with fury and Nemo, with a fierce determination resisted to the helm. Abyssal creatures emerged like shadows, challenging the captain and his Nautilus.

The aquatic storm raged fiercely, but Nemo resisted with determination.

The Nautilus, a beast of steel and courage, dipped into the heart of the Maelström. The captain struggled against the treacherous currents, his indomitable spirit defying the whirlwind itself.

In that abyss, Nemo and the submarine became into one, confronting the ocean's fury with a bravery that would resonate in the depths, marking the final chapter of Captain Nemo's epic journey.

Linacero Vuelta, Alejandro

B2.1A

THE FINAL DESTINATION OF THE NAUTILUS: THE FIGHT GOES ON

Date: April 14, 1912

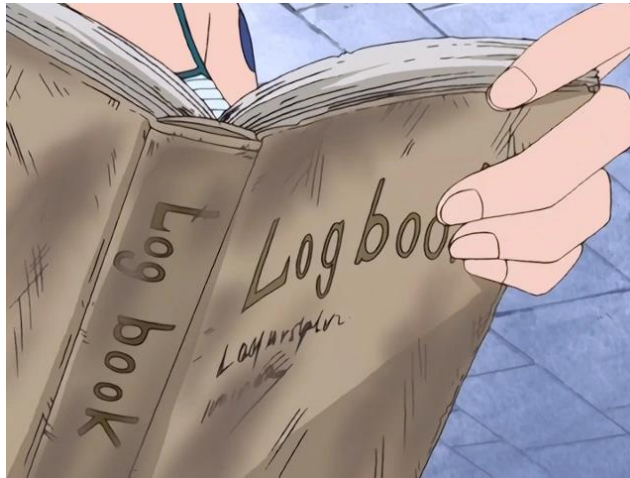

Today was a great day, perhaps the best of our agonizing lives. Today we have given a great lesson to the world sinking the Titanic. We have been following it since it left England and we have finally decided to sink it in icy waters hidden among icebergs.

We have spent the entire night watching rich people getting lost in the immense ocean and who knows?, maybe in the future other rich people will come to visit the remains and have the same destiny, we will be waiting for them.

I am sure it won't be our last feat. We are already very old but the cause deserves it. We will continue in the fight.

Asel García López
B2.1-A

The final destination of The Nautilus: The South Pole

Captain's log, 20th of March 1870.

The Nautilus is over. We are trapped under an iceberg in the South Pole. The controls don't work. We have very little oxygen. We won't survive. I won't tell this horrible fact to the crew because I don't want them to panic, but it's the truth. Hope their deaths, and mine, are without pain and fast.

I have lived a life of adventures. I believe in a cause and I fight for it, and my crew have always been with me, for this reason they deserve this peaceful ending. But I think our fight was useless. The British continue to conquer and kill the inhabitant of other lands. We have stolen many of their riches and we have returned them to the natives, but it isn't enough. Hope the natives think about our rebellious message and do something to improve their situation.

I am Captain Nemo, the commander of the Nautilus. This is my last entry. Farewell.

Rafael Valcárcel Prada

B2.1A

The final destination of the Nautilus: La Coruña

After the terrible explosion that destroyed Vulcania with all the secrets and advances achieved by Captain Nemo, far ahead of his time, Nemo is dead and the Nautilus is all that remains of his research and life's work. The crew decided to save Nautilus at the last moment before the powerful submarine sank.

Its engine was propelled by electricity produced by sodium and mercury batteries, it could reach great depths, renew the air and also feed the crew only with products from the sea. All this made it so wonderful that it could not be allowed that the entire world couldn't benefit from these investigations.

Now it's in La Coruña, where they found the secrets it was hiding. You can visit and go down to see the bottom of the sea and also learn how important it's to keep it clean and see how its inhabitants suffer from the plastics and other garbage that ends up in the oceans.

M. Raquel Gallardo Ramón

Ingles B 2.1-A

The last destination of the Nautilus: Aimlessly across the ocean

During his trips he discovered not only wonderful creatures but also incredible places. As time went by, Captain Nemo felt that despite being a human being he had more connection inside the ocean than outside it. Instead of being afraid of creatures, he was curious about them, he fed them, studied them, wrote books about them and even protected them from more dangerous creatures.

Among all the creatures he dealt with it, there was one in particular the caught his attention. She was hurt so he decided to catch her and study her in more detail. She was an incredible creature. She had fins. She had abstract and very striking symbols around her body. Her hair was bright purple.

After finishing his research he wanted to keep her to have her with him, but he knew that wasnt fair to her so he released her.

Daniel Paredes Arias
English B2.2

The Nautilus' last destiny: Kalenji women's island

After everyone had run away, I carried on with my crossing alone. Months later I discovered a remote island, which was inhabited by a group of strange women.

I had never seen women like them before. They all had the same height, the same smiling and pretty face, the same eyes colour, the same little breasts ... There was only one thing that helped me to recognize them: no two hairs were alike. Moreover, the only clothes they were wearing were odd tight black trousers with a strange inscription, Kalenji; and when I asked them about it, the answer was always, "Leggins. It is the future.

You would never understand it".

After enjoying two weeks of the most marvellous pleasures, one of them, staring at me, said, "Your time has come. You have the right to a last wish". This is the reason why I am writing this. For someone who can read it... avoid this "lovely" island!!!

Ricardo Garnelo Losada
English - B2.2

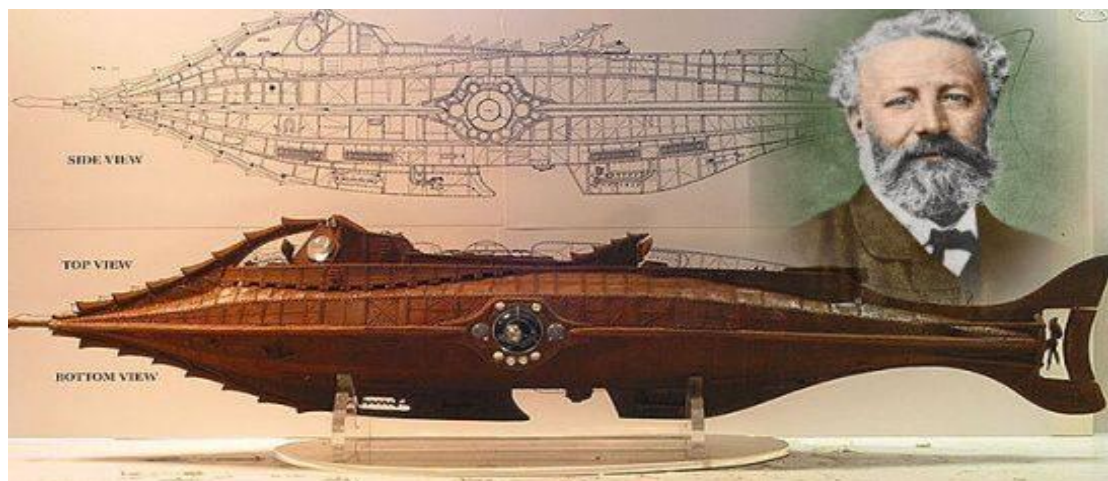

“THE LAST DESTINY OF NAUTILUS”

In the heart of the ocean, the legendary submarine Nautilus, began its last journey in the year 2023. In the 20th century, it explored the deep seas doing important scientific research. But now it had to carry out a special mission. The world has changed a lot of in recent years, with big problems like climate change and wars between countries.

Due to global warming, water level in the oceans has risen significantly and many cities are flooded. The new decisive purpose of Nautilus was to explore underwater and find out more about people who used to live there.

When Nautilus went deep down, the crew saw amazing things. In spite of the fact that the cities were completely destroyed, Nautilus discovered incredible things. These were secrets from our past. Even though they were sad stories, the crew found indicators of hope despite the huge problems they faced.

When Nautilus came back up, the team was fascinated. They realized that even though Nautilus was old, it had helped to learn about our history. The Nautilus finished its last job, showing us that no matter what happens, people can get over even when things are wrong.

THE NEW DESTINY OF NAUTILUS: LOST IN TIME

After many years sailing, Nemo and his crew were tired. They had started to dream of a different life.

One morning they saw a drifting boat with two men. Following the law of the sea, they rescued them. The men were exhausted but they were able to talk about their adventure...

The men were sailing home when a terrible storm started. They lived in a mysterious island in a lost area of the ocean where only people who lived there knew how to arrive. Ships didn't want to sail there because navigation instruments went crazy. The island was a place where nobody asked who you were or where you came from. No questions, no memories.

Many, many years later, the Nautilus is still there. It has never sailed again, although it is as new as the first day because it is so difficult to find the island that time has never passed there.

In italiano

L'ultimo destino del Nautilus: Sicilia

Il Nautilus ha vinto al mare e ancora di nuovo continua la sua avventura, scoprendo il fondo marino e tante meraviglie nelle sue profondità.

Questa favolosa nave, con una biblioteca con più di diecimila libri in diverse lingue, luce elettrica nelle sue belle lampade, bellissime opere d'arte, ecc.

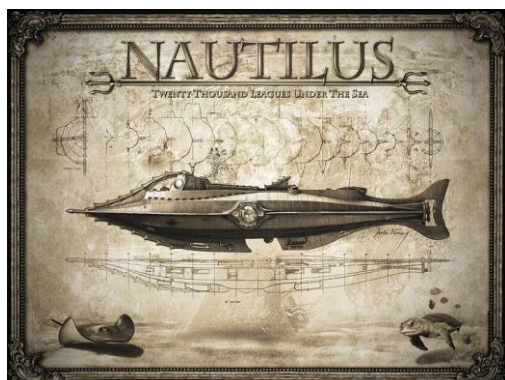

Naviga come sempre sotto l'acqua, salgono in superficie per pescare, perché tutto il loro cibo arriva dal mare e per il piacere di sentire l'aria fredda sulle loro facce.

Questa volta il capitano Nemo e il suo compagno Pierre Aronnax, viaggiano verso la Sicilia per cercare nuovi tesori e un pesce marino molto strano.

Questo animale sembra avere una medicina per curare diversi mali del nostro mondo.

Il capitano Nemo vuole fare di nuovo storia catturando questo strano animale per aiutare milioni di persone.

E domani ... sarà un altro giorno

Mónica Villaverde Fernández

Italiano A2

L'ULTIMA TAPPA DEL NAUTILUS

Il capitano Nemo, sembrava triste, pensieroso... non capiva come il mondo, la gente che lo abitava, continuava a essere così. Forse l'aria in superficie era inquinata e per quello il suo comportamento continuava a non convincerlo, le cose che fanno, le sue azioni contro gli altri, loro uguali; dopo tanto tempo non avevano capito, non avevano imparato niente? Sentiva che doveva fare qualcosa, ma che cosa? Era un anziano molto in là con gli anni, il fatto di vivere sotto il mare aveva allungato la sua vita ma adesso poteva essere che non rimanesse troppo tempo lì. Era il momento giusto, l'ultima missione per il Nautilus. Nella sua vita aveva inventato tante cose, la sua intelligenza era privilegiata e ora lo avrebbe dimostrato a tutti quanti, senza chiedere nulla, soltanto per aiutarli. Avrebbe riempito i serbatoi del Nautilus del gas di pace, lo avrebbe disciolto in tutti i mari del pianeta e la luce del Sole avrebbe fatto il resto. E la pace sarebbe ritornata per rimanere sempre tra tutti noi. Le guerre sarebbero finalmente finite. Senza dubbio la missione più bella.

Cecilia Arias Quiroga. Italiano B.2.2.

L'ULTIMO DESTINO DEL NAUTILUS: IL FIUME SIL QUANDO ATTRAVERSA PONFERRADA

Mentre il Nautilus navigava attraverso le misteriose profondità dell'oceano, il capitano Nemo e il suo equipaggio leale si ritrovarono in un viaggio pieno di colpi di scena. Le loro avventure li avevano portati agli angoli più remoti della Terra, dalle gelide acque dell'Artico ai mari soleggiati dei Tropici. Ma non sapevano che la loro destinazione finale sarebbe stata una delle più belle e particolari: le calme acque del fiume Sil a Ponferrada, una piccola cittadina immersa nel cuore di El Bierzo, un Paradiso in Spagna.

Era una mattina luminosa quando il Nautilus emerse dalle profondità del fiume Sil, lasciando stupefatti tutti coloro che si erano riuniti lì per assistere allo spettacolo. I bambini applaudivano e salutavano, mentre qualche pescatore lasciava cadere la canna incredulo alla vista del magnifico sottomarino.

Il capitano Nemo, sempre enigmatico, si ergeva orgoglioso sul ponte della sua nave e con un sorriso dichiarò: Abbiamo raggiunto la nostra destinazione finale: l'incantevole città di Ponferrada.

E così il Nautilus scivolò con grazia lungo il fiume Sil mentre paesaggi pittoreschi apparivano per le margine fino alle falde del Castello di Ponferrada, il cuore della città. Gli abitanti li accolsero a braccia aperte, desiderosi di ascoltare le storie e le avventure che avevano guidato fino loro al capitano Nemo e il suo equipaggio nel suo straordinario viaggio.

Mar Escudero Rubio

Italiano, C1

Em português

O último destino do Nautilus.... O segredo do Nemo.

Há muitos anos que a Luna que leva uma investigação nas ilhas Lofoten (Noruega) acima do Círculo Polar Ártico. Podem distinguir-se na popa o seus cabelos loiros e as suas bochetas rosadas por causa do frio, mas há uma coisa que ninguém pode imaginar... ela é filha do mar, herdeira de tempestades e guardiã dos peixes, criadora da flora e rainha dos corais.

O Nautilus sempre foi a sua obsessão. Ela não compreende o que fez Nemo para que, geração após geração, a fauna marinha mantenha o seu segredo. A Luna foi sozinha desta vez. Para o barco naquele lugar que a chama como um canto de sereia, a várias léguas de O Maelstrom, o maior redemoinho do mundo. O seu corpo margulha-se sem precisar de oxigénio e deixa-se levar para o abismo.

A barreira de peixes abre-se como uma teia, deixando ver o casco deteriorado mas erguido do submarino. As portas abrem-se no compartimento estanque...

_ Olá -diz o Capitão- há muito tempo que estou à tua espera...

O ÚLTIMO DESTINO DO NAUTILUS: OURENSE?

O submarino partiu da ria rumbo a sul. Tinha avançado 5 léguas quando as correntes o arrastaram para terra. Para evitar a colisão, o Nautilus virou a norte. As águas mudaram. Havia menos profundidade e o fundo era às vezes rochoso, outras como lindas praias de areia.

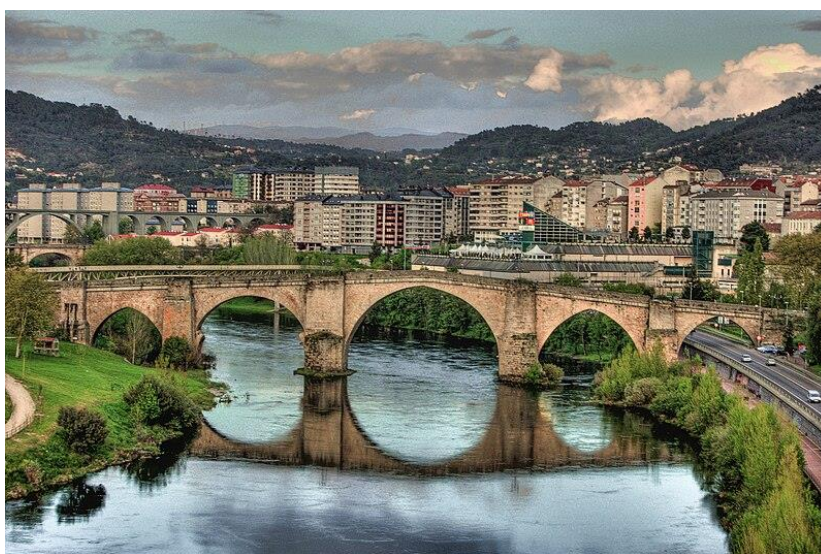

Viram serpentes de aspecto quase pre-histórico. O capitão explicou que deixavam as águas de lagostas, polvos e mexilhões e entravam nas das lampreias, salmões e enguias. “Porquê?” perguntaram.

“Navegamos nas águas doces do rio Seu. Vamos contracorrente, não conseguimos virar. Devemos esperar um lugar apropriado para voltar ao mar”.

Repentinamente, um grande calor invadiu tudo.

“Estamos a pasar as poças das águas quentes. Precisamos pôr muita atenção para não sermos levados até ao interior, podíamos entrar numa corrente subterrânea de onde seria difícil sair”.

Isso aconteceu: apesar da habilidade do timoneiro e do saber do capitão Nemo, o Nautilus perdeu-se nas águas do rio Seu, perto da cidade do ouro, lá onde a ponte romana crava os seus pilares nas profundidades da terra.

O último destino do Nautilus: Malta

A noite estava a cair, tínhamos já tudo preparado para fazer a fogueira, o pôr do sol sobre a lagoa azul era impressionante.

Subitamente, os meninos soltaram gritos, o mar feria contra as rochas e eles ficaram molhados. Os seus olhos esbugalhados não piscavam, estavam cravados ao fundo do mar.

O mar se tornou escuro, uma espécie de baleia preta saiu à superfície, tinha uma chaminé e muitos olhos aos lados, pouco a pouco isso que ninguém percebia com clareza vinha até à praia.

A baleia gigante resultou ser um submarino, na frente tinha um nome, mas não o pudimos ler. Fomos até à pequena porta, o menino loiro puxou o botão vermelho e um boneco articulado em forma de pessoa, semelhante ao famoso capitão Nemo apresentou -se e falou connosco, fez um relatório do último destino do Nautilus, esse era... “o nome”, a ilha da Malta.

Sonia Crespo López

B1 Português

O último destino do Nautilus “Fisterra”

Eram dez horas de noite do dia seguinte que o Nautilus visitou um navio naufragado para se vingar do Capitão Nemo, quando o professor Anorax, Consejo e Ned Land iniciaram a fuga.

Tinham consultado os mapas da biblioteca do submarino e sabiam que justamente naquele momento passariam perto duma saliência de terra que parecia o fim do mundo, e ali, a bordo do barco submarino, fugiram.

Ao chegarem, pernoitaram numa gruta e no dia seguinte começaram a caminhar até chegarem a uma aldeia onde foram recebidos como verdadeiros naufragos e foram brindados com as melhores iguarias locais: carne de porco, vitela, bons vinhos, tudo menos peixe, do que foram alimentados durante anos.

Ao irem para a cama, começaram a lembrar-se das suas viagens ao redor do mundo e perceberam-se de como eram felizes quando estavam a conhecer tantos lugares lindos. Então decidiram voltar para o barco e remar até reencontrarem o monstro de ferro.

Lá passaram os últimos dias das suas vidas, pois bem, no dia seguinte o Nautilus afundou definitivamente naquela costa maravilhosa, a costa da Morte.

FIM

M^a. Belén Liñán Igareta

Português B2.2.

